MIDWEST FOOD BANK INDIANA HIRES NEW EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR

INDIANAPOLIS, IN – Midwest Food Bank Indiana in Indianapolis has hired Marcie Luhigo as the new Executive Director. Marcie most recently served as the Director of Development and Communications at Horizon House in Indianapolis. Marcie will be replacing John Whitaker, who plans to retire in September. The transfer of responsibilities will take place between April and June.

“Marcie is a values-driven leader who fully embraces the MFB missions, values, and vision,” says Eric Hodel, CEO of Midwest Food Bank. “Her nonprofit leadership experience equip her to lead MFB Indiana.”

As Executive Director, Marcie will be responsible for ensuring MFB programs are executed with efficient use of facilities, employees, and volunteers. She will also manage budgeting, fundraising, community engagement, and other requirements for not-for-profit operations.

“I have watched Midwest Food Bank grow over the years and serve so many Hoosiers,” says Marcie. “I’m ecstatic that God allowed me to join such a phenomenal team.”

Established in 2008, Midwest Food Bank Indiana serves over 300 nonprofit partner agencies. The division also supports Disaster Relief in the Southeast.

“I have been blessed to serve at Midwest Food Bank Indiana for fourteen years,” says John. “Throughout my tenure I have seen God’s hand at work in many areas of this ministry.”

Midwest Food Bank has 12 locations, including 10 in the U.S., and one each in East Africa and Haiti. For more information about Midwest Food Bank, please visit their website at midwestfoodbank.org.

Midwest Food Bank (“MFB”) is a private, non-profit 501(c)(3) charity. As a faith-based organization, it is the mission of Midwest Food Bank to share the love of Christ by alleviating hunger and malnutrition locally and throughout the world and providing disaster relief; all without discrimination. Our vision is to provide industry-leading food relief to those in need while feeding them spiritually.
